

The Janesville Daily Gazette.

VOLUME 29 Entered at the Post Office at Janesville Wis., as second-class matter.

JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1885

[Published Every Evening Except Sunday, at 50¢ a Year]

NUMBER 94

Ron. S. L. Phelps, ex-United States minister to Peru, is dead.

Hugh A. Jewett and family, General Roger A. Pryor and family, Mrs. Stonewall Jackson and family and Jefferson Davis (are named among well known people "booked" for the White Sulphur Springs, Va., this season.

The National council of bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal church, is now in session at Columbus, Ohio. Ten Episcopal districts are represented. The districts include 400,000 communicants, 2,400 preachers, 200,000 Sabbath school children, 4,000 Sunday school teachers, 100 colleges and about $10,000,000 worth of property. This showing speaks volumes for the down-trodden race, and indicates rapid strides in the march of progress.

John McCulloch, the tragedian, recently made an attack on Mr. Hitchcock, the cashier of the Sturtevant house in New York city, where Mr. McCulloch is a guest. Mr. Horace Leland, one of the proprietors of the hotel says that his illustrious guest requires watching and that he is not capable of caring for himself.

Mr. McCulloch's friends hesitate about taking the necessary steps to place him in an asylum, which seems to be the only safe course left for them.

The election of N. A. Walker, of Manitowoc, as chairman of the democratic state central committee, shows that Congressman Joe Rankin has more influence in state politics than Colonel George W. Bird. The latter was very anxious to be chairman, and had done considerable hard work, but the Rankin influence was too strong for the ambitious Bird. This shows that Joe, half dead, is a greater factor in democratic politics in Wisconsin than the active and aggressive one.

Charles Warren Adams and Miss Mildred Coleridge, daughter of the Lord Chief Justice of England, were married yesterday in London. A maternal uncle was the officiating clergyman. The marriage was private. Lord Coleridge was asked by his daughter to attend the wedding; he refused, and, in consequence of this refusal, no other members of the family of Lord Coleridge were invited. Invitations, however, were issued to and accepted by all the members of the family of the late Lady Coleridge, and all were present at the wedding.

"Young man go west" and cultivated the acquaintance of Miss Taylor, of Wauwatona, Dakota. This lady emigrated three years ago. The first year she captured a pre-emption, and declined an offer of marriage. The second year she added to her landed interests a homestead and tree claim, and had the courage to say "No" to four suitors. Her worldly possessions now include a section of land, twenty-seven cows, a diploma from the county fair for the best butter and largest pumpkin, and a whole heart, all of which ought to induce any young man to try his fortune in the vicinity of Wauwatona.

The Honolulu Commercial Advertiser recently published the following: "We have been informed from a reliable source that ex-United States Minister Daggett has been instructed with a commission to Washington by the king on matters of importance connected with the affairs of this kingdom." In an interview on the above subject, published in the Evening Post, at San Francisco, Mr. Daggett, who arrived from Honolulu Tuesday, said: "It is true that I have been instructed with a commission by King Kalakaua to the United States government, but I am not at liberty to state its object." It is ascertained from other sources that Daggett's secret mission was believed to be the annexation of the islands to the United States.

A Paris Journal, after stating that Victor Hugo's personal property amounting to $50,000 francs goes on to explain in what way he succeeded in amassing such a large sum. The conditions were made with managers of theaters and with publishers were of such a nature that, notwithstanding the great success of his works, the managers and publishers generally lost money. For his novel "L'Homme Qui Rit," he demanded 400,000 francs, and when that sum had been paid he sold it again to a newspaper, which printed it first, and thereby raised its circulation to 120,000, while the publishers became bankrupt. For each of his dramas produced in Paris the manager was obliged to guarantee Hugo 65 to 70 per cent of the net proceeds. Besides this he demanded the whole amount taken in at every tenth performance, and at every performance 200 of the best places, which he sold for his own benefit.

Bedloe's Island, in New York harbor, where the great Liberty statue from France is to be erected, has a curious history, which makes it an appropriate place for a memorial to Liberty. Its owner was Mr. Isaac Bedloe, and in 1870 the governor of the state issued an instrument declaring that, for and in consideration of valuable improvements made by Mr. Bedloe on his island, it should in the future be known as "Love Island," and should be a privileged place, where no arrests could be made or warrants served except by special consent of the governor. The people did not take kindly to the change of name; the island continued to be known as "Bedloe's Island." In looking up the history of the island, deeds were found to the most valuable part of New York, on both sides of Broadway, which was sold to Isaac Bedloe about 200 years ago for $1 an acre. Bedloe's island is right in front of the city, not over a mile from the Battery and Castle Garden.

Mr. Burchard, director of the mint, has decided to test the powers of the president to remove him. Mr. Burchard has been requested to resign, not on account of offensive partisanship, however, but because Mr. Manning, secretary of the treasury, contends that he is not in harmony with the financial policy of the administration. Mr. Burchard claims that he can not be removed because the law expressly provides, or seems to provide, that the director of the mint and the comptroller of the currency cannot be suspended without the consent of the senate. But there is another think which compels Mr. Burchard to hold to his office. Charges have been made against him. One is that he permitted a defaulting subordinate to resign. Others are that he is guilty of an error of judgment in efficiency, lack of executive ability, and has been careless in the management of the silver purchases. Burchard's friends also hold that it is due him not to resign when such charges are made.

For some time past the students of the State university have been quite active in presenting petitions and resolutions in regard to the government of the university. At a late meeting of the board of regents, the following resolution was adopted:

The presentation of petitions or other papers to the board of regents by a student in regard to the government of the university, or as to the appointment or dismissal of professors or officers, and the holding of meetings by students to criticize the government of the university are regarded as disorderly, and any student who engages in such practices may be dismissed from the university by the faculty of the department to which he belongs.

This is an excellent resolution, and should have been adopted long ago. Some of the students have seemed to act as if they were the power behind the throne, and have virtually given the board of regents to understand that they do not understand their business.

By the way, there has been a burying of the hatchet between President Bascom and Regent Keyes, who have been bitter opponents for a long time. The event was celebrated by a sort of love feast, and while there was not much hugging done, the two men agreed to a compromise.

VETERANS ATTEND TO BUSINESS.

Commander Kountz' Report.—A Large Increase in Membership—Sympathy with Grant.

PORTLAND, Me., June 25.—The business meeting of the G. A. R. national encampment was held Wednesday in the city hall, which was full of delegates and visitors. As soon as the meeting was organized Commander Kountz delivered his annual address.

He opened by greeting the delegates from the representation of the patriotic army, which he had established into the advance of civilization and the rights of men than any other army in the history of the world, and of an organization which is to-day accomplishing more to relieve the suffering of the world than any other.

The organization congratulated its auditors upon the gain of 130,000 in membership over last year. The report of the national encampment was read, and he said:

On June 9 there was on hand a cash balance of $15,224. The lavish misuse of military titles was referred to and sternly deprecated. The organization is known as the Veterans' Right, and is not to be confused with the commandant recommended that the organization known as Sons of Veterans should be independent of the Grand Army. Of Gen. Grant, the speaker said: "We give our hearty sympathy in his connection with us, and extend a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

This was received with loud applause and cheering, and in a moment half a dozen commands rose and offered resolutions of sympathy to the general. Efforts were made to refer all the resolutions to a special committee, but the convention would not admit, and an unanimous vote and the greatest enthusiasm was given to the resolution of the adjointing general order to telegraph them at once.

Commander Loring, of Boston, offered a resolution asking the national encampment to support the $800 universal pension bill, called the Loring bill. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

This practically completed the business of the preliminary session, and loud calls were made for Gen. Logan, who rose to speak.

The largest and most important speech of the day was that of Gen. U. S. Grant, who, in his concluding address, expressed his sympathy in his connection with us, and extended a special greeting to our beloved commandant and comrades, who for months past have been unceasingly with that characteristic fortitude that has challenged the admiration of the world."

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Subscribers to THE DAILY GAZETTE, who do not receive their paper regularly, will confer a favor by reporting omissions to THE GAZETTE, COUNTRY ROOM.

LOCAL MATTERS.

It has come—The 450 oriental lace, that the ladies have been waiting for.

J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

Gents' sample neckwear, bows, scarfs and ties at 1/2 usual prices, just received at Archie Reid's.

"I HAVE GOT IT."—The best, healthiest and cheapest hot-weather drink in the world. Pure clarified cider from the mill in New York state, and warranted. A car load just received, and for sale by barrel, gallon or glass.

W. T. VANDERK, Western Agent.

Lake Superior fresh fish at Reise's market West Milwaukee street.

Lost—In second ward, yesterday, a ladies' gold chain and locket—picture in locket. The finder will be rewarded by leaving the same at the office of the Lightning soap Co., North Main street.

The finest and cheapest line of furs in the city. The entire sample line of Marshall, Field & Co., just received at ARCHIE REID'S.

I offer for sale the farm of 150 acres, owned by J. W. Dear, adjoining Emerald Grove. It is one of the best farms in Bradford, and is adjacent to churches, a graded school, postoffice and other advantages offered by a country village. The improvements are good. Mr. Dear's failing health induces him to remove to California at once, and a price has been made on the farm that will insure a ready sale.

C. E. BOWLES.

Summer cloaks, dolmans, mantelets, jackets, etc., at less than cost to close Ladies' jackets—$1.00. Dolmans, all wool—$2.50, at Archie Reid's.

Just received at Wheelock's crockery store 50 toilet sets with sash jar, decorated in bright colors and gold band, will be sold for two-thirds of what they are worth. These sets are large size, fine goods, and were bought at less than what it cost to import them and will be sold very cheap.

5 cent lawn in all the new patterns just opened by Archie Reid.

Trusses accurately adjusted at Elmer's.

Cashmere shawl in all colors at ARCHIE REID'S.

Mr. Alex. Gabrithi wants a good competent girl. Call at the house in Conrad's row, on Milton avenue. Small family and good wages.

A new line of ladies' pocket books and hand bags at regular wholesale prices at Archie Reid's.

C. E. Bowles has money to loan.

Ladies' muslin underwear in great variety cheap at Archie Reid's.

Ladies if you want a jersey jacket don't forget that Archie Reid has the best and cheapest line in the city.

Money at 7 per cent. At Gowley Bros., over Kimball & Lowell's.

New assortment of combs, tooth brushes, toilet soap and face powders, at Palmer & Stevens' drugstore.

For a good and neat job of repairing or lawn mowers, sewing machines, umbrellas, parasols, knives, scissors, razors, etc., go to Person Bros., North Main street, who keep constantly on hand keys of every description, sewing machine supplies, pocket knives, razors, revolvers, rifles, gun powder, shot, shells, wads, etc. Also a complete line of fishing tackle. Best pump on the market—the Rockford.

PERSON BRO'S.

For Sale—A farm of 207 acres situated one mile south-west of Atton, with 120 acres in crops, 50 acres of fine second growth timber and the balance meadow and pasture. The farm has a medium size house, granary and stable and an orchard of four acres. It is supplied with never-failing running water, and is well adapted to stock raising. It must be sold without delay to settle an estate and owners' share of crops will be given. Price $5,300. Apply to C. E. BOWLES.

Now we have got it—a Badger range which will be sold at a bargain. Also a large stock of other goods which will be sold to suit the times, at the second hand store of Samson & Canniff.

Extra Janesville beer, choice wines, cigars and cigarettes by, Max, 62 West Milwaukee street.

Houses for sale in this city at prices ranging from $650 to $3,000.

GOWDY BRO'S.

Max Pfenning, agent for the steamship lines, land-agent and notary public, 62 West Milwaukee street, Janesville.

Houses and two good lots in 2d ward O. C. BOWLES.

For Sale—Fine 140 acre farm, part prairie and part timber; improvements worth $5,000.00; seeded for crop of 1855, possessor given immediately; all for the small sum of $5,000.00.

H. H. BLANCHARD.

Edwards' Balm of Life is sold by Palmer & Stevens. Trial bottle free.

—Go to Stevens & Baker's for D. B. Raysey's and wife's alternative.

A very complete line of carriage dust-riders and riding saddles, at Jas. A. Fathers, corner of Court and Main streets.

PHOTOGRAPHY.

Thousands of cases of Badger, neuralgia, prostration, rheumatism, etc., are cured by PRENTICE & EVENSON. Send a trial package or receipt of 10 cents for postage, etc. Dr. A. G. OLT, Box 212, Chicago, Ill.

WANTED—Ladies and Young Men, in city or their home, to work for us. We have a large number of goods to sell or on credit. Write to PRENTICE & EVENSON, 101 W. Madison street, Chicago, Ill.

WANTED—An active man to sell or on credit for our store. Expenses in advance. Standard Fire Co., Boston, Mass.

BRIEFS.

The attendance at the races this afternoon is much larger than on yesterday.

—Mr. Charles M. Scanlan has gone to Prairie du Chien, for a brief visit at his old home.

—Mr. Chas. A. Evenson, now of Chicago, is in the city, renewing old acquaintances.

—One old friend and former fellow-citizen, Wm. A. Eager, of Chicago, is in the city attending the races.

—Jameson Commander No. 2, Knight Templar, regular semi-monthly conclave this evening at Masonic hall.

—In the municipal court the case of the state against Michael Gugen was brought up to day and will continue for some time.

—Fourth of July committee meeting to-morrow evening, at 8:30 o'clock, at the common council chamber. A full attendance is desired.

—The pickle case still continues to take up the attention of the circuit court. It probably will not be finished until the end of the week.

—Rev. W. F. Brown has returned from a three weeks' health tour, much benefited by the journey. He expects to occupy his own pulpit next Sabbath.

—N. H. Passman, the well known landlord of the Goodwin house, Beloit was in the city to-day to take in the races, and put up at the Grand.

—Misses Etta and Ade Pond, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Pond, have returned home after a two-weeks' absence visiting friends in Chicago and Fort Atkinson.

—Of the seventy-eight students who graduated from the State university this year we fail to find one from Rock county. The majority hail from Madison and Dane county, with a few residing in other states.

—The funeral of little John Conley took place at St. Patrick's church at nine o'clock to-day, and the attendance of sympathizing friends of the family was quite large. The remains were taken to the Catholic cemetery for interment.

—There are more strangers in the city in attendance at the races than was ever known before on a like occasion. Should the weather continue favorable, the races will prove a great success to the Driving park association.

—The Beloit Free Press: "The Athlete strain has undoubtedly come to the front in this vicinity to stay. At the Janesville 'meat' Tuesday, there was nothing in the race in which First Call was entered that he could not have defeated had his driver so willed."

—Notwithstanding the large number of strangers in the city attending the races, the city is very quiet and orderly. Very few people are not under the influence of liquor, and the city marshal reports everything moving along in the most quiet and peaceful manner.

—Quite a large number of our German citizens will go to Watertown to-morrow to attend the saengerfest. On Sunday the delegation will be largely increased—a hundred or more will go up on the excursion which will leave this city at eight o'clock, returning in the evening Fare for the round trip, $1.90.

—A horse attached to a buggy broke from his hitching post in front of Carlson's meat market late yesterday afternoon and made a wild run up North Main street; reaching the gas house, the frightened horse plunged into the gas pond, and but for the timely arrival of Mr. N. Carlson, who went to the horse in a boat, the animal would have drowned. Mr. Carlson was compelled to cut the harness from the horse in order to get its head above water. The horse belonged to Mr. Croighton, residing near Emerald Grove.

—Fonton Park—familiarly known as Porter's—at Geneva lake, is now opened and ready for guests. Mr. Lester Porter will have charge of the park this season, which is sufficient guarantee that it will be well managed. A daily stage will leave every morning at 8:30 o'clock, and return in time to connect with the accommodation north in the evening. Janesville pleasure seekers will find the Sharpe route convenient and pleasant.

Wade Awaken.

An audience of about two hundred and fifty greeted the Temperance Wade Awaken at Lappin's hall last evening, and for two hours enjoyed the entertainment provided by the little people who occupied the stage to the number of about sixty, presenting a tableau of innocence and beauty in harmony with the clear sparkling water, of which they were strong advocates. The Rev. Dr. Hodge of the Baptist church, offered the opening prayer.

The programme was filled with recitations and songs under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Kinney. This lady possesses rare tact and ability and is deserving of much credit for the success of the entertainment last evening. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Clarence L. Clark, Miss Lizzie Richardson, Mrs. Dr. Hodge, and others.

—Among the young people who took part were, Mary Forbes, Jessie Grove, Jessie Cook, Lizzie Toplens, Goo. N. Kinney, May Dewey, Clytie White, Hattie Kinney, Ida Stem, Tuie Wall, Ida Marvin, Lulu Kent, Ade Kent and Gladie Tonnett.

—Miss Lou Fonton appeared in the costume of an Indian girl and recited in a pleasant and graceful manner the little poem "Winkie."

Maggie Jones sang a solo which merited an encore and to which she responded with "Little Bo Peep."

—Stella Tuckwood also rendered a solo, to the delight of the audience.

The programme was interspersed with some humorous readings by a Mrs. Hadelle, who was engaged for the occasion at the recommendation of the State Women's Christian Temperance union. Mrs. Hadelle is very much of a lady, but lacks voice and ability as a public reader and speaker.

—The Janesville ladies who have labored so unselfishly with the children during the past year, have wrought a good work, which will come back as the bread upon the waters, to bless some home in the years to come.

—Perrinian Wm. of Iron.

is a certain preventative and cure for Fevers and Aches, and persons of sedentary habits, those troubled with sleeplessness, languor and indisposition to exercise will derive great relief from its use. It is a preparation of Perrinian Bark, Barley wine and Iron, sold only by French & Evans, opposite the postoffice.

To Rent.—A large furnished room, second ward, second house east of John Watson's, Mrs. Geo. Fenton.

MERRILY MATED.

LUCILLE GODDEN.

All Souls church was the scene of a most happy wedding festival last evening at eight o'clock. The main auditorium had been gaily festooned with evergreens and flowers, and by invitation a large number of friends assembled at the above hour, and while Miss Clara Church played the Wedding march, the bride, Miss Mary R. Godden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Godden, of the first ward, and the groom, Rev. H. Tambly, formerly pastor of All Souls church, marched up the aisle to the altar, when Rev. John L. Jones, of Chicago, in his own original and most happy manner pronounced them husband and wife. Congratulations followed; the party returned to the church parlors where refreshments were served, and a time of sociability followed. The newly wedded pair were the recipients of many very handsome and useful presents. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lyche will spend the summer in Massachusetts.

CHAS. PALMER.

The weather yesterday was hardly as fine as on the day before, but the attendance was much larger. The horses were very evenly matched and the horsemen who came in from other cities felt well repaid for their trouble. In the 2d class there were six starters, of whom Mary Sprague was the favorite. She started rather lightly in the first heat, but in the others she trotted like clock work winning all but the first, not however, without a very close fight against Sprague Pilot.

DRIVERS' DUST.

The weather yesterday was hardly as fine as on the day before, but the attendance was much larger. The horses were very evenly matched and the horsemen who came in from other cities felt well repaid for their trouble. In the 2d class there were six starters, of whom Mary Sprague was the favorite. She started rather lightly in the first heat, but in the others she trotted like clock work winning all but the first, not however, without a very close fight against Sprague Pilot.

INTERESTING ITEMS CONCERNING A SUBJECT LITTLE UNDERSTOOD.

Mary Sprague and Lotta P. take the Lead in Yesterday's Races.

A Large Attendance at the Second Day of the June Meeting.

TO-MORROW'S EVENTS.

The weather yesterday was hardly as fine as on the day before, but the attendance was much larger. The horses were very evenly matched and the horsemen who came in from other cities felt well repaid for their trouble. In the 2d class there were six starters, of whom Mary Sprague was the favorite. She started rather lightly in the first heat, but in the others she trotted like clock work winning all but the first, not however, without a very close fight against Sprague Pilot.

SUMMARY.

240 RACE-PURSE $60.

J. L. Mitchell—Mary Sprague.....11 1/2

F. A. Corr—Lotta Pilot.....11 1/2

F. A. Cook—Captain Cook.....11 1/2

B. D. Blythe—Old Ironsides.....11 1/2

L. B. Blythe—Native Maid.....11 1/2

Time—2:31 1/2, 2:30; 2:31 1/2.

FREE FOR ALL TALES—PURSE $60.

H. G. Gilas—Cloud R.....3 1/2

W. L. H. Blythe—Mike Wilkes.....3 1/2

Time—2:32 1/2; 2:33; 2:34 1/2; 2:35 1/2.

The judges were G. B. Palmer, Littau; Dr. J. E. Conkley, Miller; H. D. McKinley; Jameson Commander No. 2, Knight Templar.

Time-keepers: H. Y. Yales, Chicago and S. Taylor, Chicago. Starter, Mr. Jameson Commander No. 2, Knight Templar.

OUR SCHOOLS.

Report of Prof. Burton and Commissioner Whitter.

Many of the people of Janesville will be more or less surprised when they read the Gazette this evening, and learn that Prof. B. W. Burton, superintendent of the city schools, has resigned, and that his resignation is now in the hands of the board of education awaiting the action of the school board which meets on Friday evening, July 3d. This action, on the part of Prof. Burton will be regretted by his wife, who says to him about five o'clock in the morning: "My dear, I think you had better get up and milk the cow; I have read some where that cows ought to be milked about this time of day."

He has boarded at home long enough to know that his better half is authority on most questions, and ten minutes later finds him half awake in the barn-yard, attired in a pair of hip boots and a last year's shooting jacket, endeavoring to gain an audience with the gentle bovine who views him with a good deal of suspicion. A good deal of milk was had, and the cow is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.

He is now to be milked about this time of day.